Robert E. Lundy : The Exquisite Beauty of This Elegant Glider Is Exceeded Only By It's Comfort and Gentle Lullaby Motion before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Exquisite Beauty of This Elegant Glider Is Exceeded Only By It's Comfort and Gentle Lullaby Motion:

The comfort of this classic glider is beyond description. The frame is on the outside rather than under the seat to accomodate longer swing arms for greater gliding action. Seat designed to fit the curvature of you back. Strength and beauty built in. ...Fun to build. A joy to own. ...Clear crisp photos of every step. ...Precise, full-sized templates. ...Simple, easy to follow instructions. ...Complete material list.

About the Author I was raised on a dairy farm in southern Idaho and have retained to this day an intense hatred for dairy cows and all other livestock to a lesser degree. The twice a day juicing of those senseless beasts left an indelible mark on me. I decided long ago, never again. I haven't. And I won't. The first attempt at writing was at the Minnesota State Fair while attempting to sell wood sculptures of historic western faces. The folks there held no appreciation for cowboys and Indians so the two week fair was spent in the start of a book on the art of carving faces. An immediate success. Sold thousands almost before a blink. the next book on relief carving has been almost as successful. Both continue to sell well. Even after winning several awards for wood sculpture a slow burnout destroyed any desire to continue. The love of woodworking, however, turned my attention to the design and construction of outdoor furniture. With a new classic look. Tired of the age-old, mundane style of outdoor furniture a determination arose to produce swings, picnic tables, chairs, gliders, lounges and others with sleek, flowing lines yet strong and durable. Proud of the outcome a decision was made to share the knowledge with others by writing how-to books. Four are available with more to come. Try them all. You'll have a lot of fun.
